Sausages with a perfect bite, taste, and look

If you want your sausages to have the perfect look, bite, flavor, and aroma – making them irresistible to consumers all around – our sheep casings are a natural solution. The unique properties of CTH's sheep casings – the result of careful material selection and the best, time-tested processing methods – will make your sausages a mouthwatering experience.

The strictest quality guidelines

To make sure our casings are fully safe, we source our raw materials under very strict procurement procedures. Our casings are all derived from healthy sheep, inspected, and approved for human consumption. We select the casings at our production site, where our skilled workers carefully inspect and process them according to strict quality guidelines and in compliance with HACCP, BRC, and IFS quality standards.

Safe, clean, and natural

Today, consumers prefer natural products, free from artificial chemicals: it strengthens their confidence that what they're eating or serving their families and friends is totally safe. With only salt added, the sheep casings we deliver are free from all chemicals, foreign elements, mucosa, and any other parts of the intestinal tract. They are clean and fresh, with a natural color and odor.

Perfect for your production

Our sheep casings are suitable for both automatic filling lines and smaller productions. For the former, we offer a long-stranded material on easy tube, specifically prepared for a fast and secure application into your factory line; for smaller-scale operations, we supply smaller units in vacuum bags or buckets. Furthermore, we pack and process our sheep casings however you want to receive them. From standard big barrels to smaller units, we aim to make your processes as efficient as possible.
