Q: What is your favorite part of your job role?

A: My favorite part is keeping up with the amount of invoices I need to pay. I like the competition against the clock. I have all month to get the invoices paid, and it's a race from the first to the last day of the month. At the beginning it was stressful, but not anymore -- the stress has been turned into a competitive energy. There is an incentive to take of the vendor behind it.

Q: Has your role changed at all?

A: As of January. I get notified when our Master Data Management team sets a customer up on prepay, and I reach out to the customer and get their setup fee or delivery fee. I've turned it into another challenge. My whole goal is to get the customer on the phone as soon as possible and make detailed notes.

Q: What have you learned from working at DAR PRO?

A: My initial thoughts were that the industry was interesting. We are an industry that repurposes materials into new products for good. It made me think about the industry that I came from, which was the funeral industry. Making memories for the family sustainable for life. They somehow connect, both industries work in the celebration of life and sustainability.

Q: How do you unwind from work?

A: Making Belgian waffles from scratch for my family with every topping imaginable is so fun, tasty and rewarding! I enjoy walking on trails at the park; I get to enjoy the scenery and get in a nice little workout almost every day. I also like to listen to music or podcasts; it depends on the mood.

Q: What is your favorite fried food?

A: Fried green tomatoes from Whiskey Cake.
