Q: What is your favorite part of interacting with restaurants?

A: I've always been a foodie, so the opportunity to be involved in an industry that is involved with food has been interesting. It gives you a look into the food industry and allows you a better understanding of it.

Q: What have you learned from working here?

A: When we went through of training process, I didn't know that there were a lot of products that I use on a daily basis which are made with used cooking oil or waste. At first I thought.... EW. But now after learning more, I realize it is a really cool thing to be able to convert it.

Q: How do you help the customer?

A: On a grand scale, my experience has been a roller coaster ride of different customers. You have some calls where emotions are high. Some customers will ask questions but then they are all ears, some just want to talk, so you have to put your listening ears on. I just try to be flexible.

Q: What do you like to do outside of work?

A: I played basketball in college, so I like to play ball on Sundays or anytime I can guess squeeze it in. I've played the drums since I was 3. I also love cooking and watching Gordon Ramsey, Bobby Flay, Guy Fieri.

Q: What do you like to cook?

A: A meal I can make with my eyes closed is spaghetti and meatballs. I'm still getting acclimated to desserts and baking. My fiancé and I would always get apple peach cobbler with caramel ice cream from Yardhouse. I want to try making that from scratch. That's on the to do list.

Q: What is your favorite fried food?

A: I'm a huge wing guy, @Wingstop is my top. I get two flavors: Hot Lemon Pepper and Asian Zing.
