INVENTORY CONTROL SPECIALIST

This is Ryan - he works as an inventory control specialist at DAR PRO Storage Solutions in Marengo, Ohio. He is tasked with ensuring we have all the materials needed to produce our multiple used cooking oil storage tanks. He started with us back in January, and before that he worked in shipping and logistics, so this move made perfect sense for his career! When asked if he has learned anything from his job that he takes home, he's learned to be more organized and clean around the house.

Learn more about Ryan below!

Q: What do you like most about your job?

A: I really enjoy getting things organized and making sure the numbers are accurate as well. I also think learning about the manufacturing side of things is really interesting.

Q: What is your favorite part about working for DAR PRO?

A: I like the area that I work in, because it's rural and you get to be around different types of people.

Q: Did you have an understanding of sustainability/recycling before working here?

A: Definitely not as much as I do now!

Q: If you had to choose three words to describe yourself, what would those words be?

A: I'm motivated, thoughtful, and trustworthy.

Q: What kind of worker are you?

A: I try to be very versatile, or a jack-of-all-trades. I like to be able to do both floor and in office tasks so that my team can get everything done.

Q: What do you like to do outside of work?

A: I like to do anything outdoors, especially hunt and fish! I was able to get a 10 point buck last season, and I also like to golf.

Q: What is your favorite fried food?

A: I would have to say chicken wings. I'm not picky where they are from.
